

2017 GRIFFIN AMBASSADORS PROGRAM Applications Now Open

Griffin Theatre Company is seeking applications for its 2017 Ambassadors program.

Running successfully since 2004, Griffin Ambassadors is an annual access-all-areas program for Year 10, 11 & 12 students drawn from a diverse range of schools across New South Wales. Ambassadors are united by a common curiosity about contemporary Australian stories, a love of theatre and the motivation to know more. They might be techies, budding playwrights or performers, or maybe just love going to see theatre.

Ambassadors participate in a structured, year-long program of activities. They attend all Griffin Main Season productions for free throughout the year, engage with casts and creative teams in post-show discussions, and explore various aspects of theatre craft in special workshops. It's an opportunity for students to discover new Australian plays in a unique and intimate space, explore the issues behind the plays, and potentially source texts for modules in the HSC English syllabus.

Griffin values these connections with students – it's an opportunity to develop new audiences, new artists and contribute to career pathways. The program is offered free of charge to all successful applicants.

"For me Griffin's Ambassador program is an opportunity unmatched by any other company in Sydney, that not only allows me to expose myself to a diverse range of theatrical work without the burden of cost, but has also connected me with artists who inspire me as well as people my age with similar interests and aspirations. What it does better than any other youth-based program, is cultivate discussions and dialogues between talented theatre artists who are successfully working in the industry, and the young people who will one day be contributing to the industry themselves." Laura Hopkinson, Griffin Ambassador, 2010.
